

Head of School
Madrona Independent School

Location: Vancouver, BC

Madrona Independent School ("Madrona") is a small, nimble and nurturing co-educational K-8 school. With a focus on well-designed, inquiry-based learning, Madrona's curriculum is intentionally planned to address asynchronous pathways and to offer an academically challenging program for 70 gifted and bright students in the primary and intermediate years. Centrally located, Madrona occupies a recently expanded and renovated campus in the Kitsilano neighbourhood in Vancouver, where their welcoming and flexible layout facilitates small group conversations and collaborations between students and teachers alike.

This is a defining opportunity for the new Head of School to propel the school forward with passion and energy. The Head of School will build on Madrona's innovative education approach and creative focus, with a strong vision for the future. Reporting to the Board of Directors, the new Head of School will be accountable for providing overall leadership and direction to Madrona. Adhering to the Board of Director's policies, goals and objectives, the candidate will engage in future planning, setting of goals, and educational excellence.

The ideal candidate will bring demonstrated academic and administrative leadership experience from within the public or independent school system in a position such as Head of School, Deputy Head, Principal, Vice Principal, or equivalent. Fit with the school ethos and style will be of paramount importance. Imagination, dedication, flexibility, open-mindedness and an excellent work ethic will prove essential to join this unique school.

This is an exceptional opportunity for an innovative and engaged educational leader who wants to provide students at Madrona with the best educational experience possible.
